Market Oriented Promotion of Certified Sustainable Cocoa Production	USAID has partnered with several major private enterprises to jointly support a public-private initiative on sustainable cocoa production in Cote d'Ivoire. The new project aims to encourage cocoa producers to apply methods of sustainable agriculture according to an internationally accepted standard by remunerating this with a premium price. This mechanism will be secured through training, inspection and certification. The project objective is to increase small-scale economic, ecological, and social benefits of producers by supplying certified cocoa beans. Funded by USAID/GDA and implemented by USAID/WARP.	Trade-Related Agriculture	500,000
		Activity Total	500,000
