Integrated Management of Indigenous Lands in Ecuador	The Integrated Management of Indigenous Lands program builds business capacity among lowland indigenous groups, helping them to development small enterprises. These include production of handicrafts and non-traditional forest products for the national and international specialty markets, as well as cultural tourism. The program also helps to promote foreign direct investment in communal lands conservation, ecotourism and sustainable natural resource management. Ecuador Description for 2008: Conserving biodiversity is a USG objective and nowhere it is more important than in Ecuador. Ecuador may have more biological diversity for its size than any other country. Much of this is conserved in the country's National Protected Area System (which covers 18% of continental Ecuador and the Galapagos) and in indigenous territories (19% of the country, nearly five million hectares). USAID programs improved the management and local benefits of protected areas and lowland indigenous territories	Tourism Sector Development	30,001	40,001

Integrated Pest Management Collaborative Research Support Program	In FY 09, the IPM CRSP developed and promoted several technologies that aided export agriculture in its host countries. In Ecuador a beneficial bacterium has been developed as a spray to protect cocoa pods from fungal disease. In Honduras a hot water treatment for planting material is being promoted to prevent mites from establishing damaging populations. Also in Honduras adoption of grafting is increasing yields of eggplant for export by extending the length of the harvest period.	Trade- Related Agriculture		10,192

Ecuador Description for 2008: Ecuador shares a 400-mile border with Colombia, abutting the Colombian provinces of Nariño and Putumayo, which are areas of heavy narco-terrorist activity. Despite a wealth of natural resources, Ecuador's border region is mired in poverty. A paucity of licit employment opportunities, isolation, and proximity to rebel-held Colombian territory combine to make the region vulnerable. Ecuador is relatively free of drug cultivation, but has become a major transit route for Colombian cocaine and her	Trade- Related Agriculture		1,806,001
